Project Management Services

Mastering the process for consistently getting IT projects done on-time, within budget, and within expectations is what will set you apart as an effective Business Executive----given the long tradition of failed IT projects that have been well documented and well publicized. There is a unique set of characteristics related to each project that present risk and they are different for every project. Our value, based on our experience and sensitivity to people and organizations, is in identifying and anticipating the high risk areas of a project and then managing them more closely to mitigate the risk. The following is a list of typical risk areas in many projects:

- Poor planning and misaligned expectations
- Inconsistent and “fuzzy” communications
- Undisciplined estimating/ budgeting
- Complicated systems/ technical integration
- Unpredictable resource availability and skills
- Perpetual objectives and scope change

The “human” success factors have become our core values and a key part of mitigating the risks associated with projects and the Project Management function:

- Humility first to listen and understand
- Ethics “doing the right thing” for all stakeholders, whether the organization, staff or partners
- Candor saying what needs to be said without fear of reprisal or embarrassment
- Creativity fostering an open innovative environment where all potential solutions are welcome
- Quality a desire to produce nothing less than excellent result

An IT Evolution Project Manager helps mitigate risk and execute projects on-time and on budget with:

- An average of 15 years experience of “hands-on” IT experience- *enabling a team that can both anticipate and address the most complex situations
- Process and operational thinking- *understanding how the implementation will impact IT and the business
- Leadership- *fostering an environment of mentoring and coaching, and demanding a disciplined lifecycle to address timelines and budgets
- Excellent communications skills- *involving all the right constituents, enabling clear expectations setting, problem solving, and change management

We recommend a free, half-day session to better understand your current Project Management requirements and capabilities, and to provide a set of recommendations for improvement or change.
